Basic

I am an experienced front-end developer who has envolved in quite a few projects.
I am passionate about building high quality apps and user interfaces with modern web technologies. Through being conversant in server-side engineering, Reactjs development, and docker management practices, I am able to execute end-to-end on a product or project.

Specialties

Authoring great user experiences with JavaScript, HTML, and CSS. Advocating for the open web. Drawing from a strong background in many diverse web technologies and frameworks.Familiar with a little of backend language such as PHP, Python and Nodejs, Ruby on Rails.

Experience

Security and System Engineer at DPtech

July 2015 - December 2015(half a year)

As a member of the Solution Innovations team, I am creating a RWD pattern library as the system of record and living style guide for the next version of the Magento reference store. I also support sales activities by building and deploying various tools and services, such as a third-party JavaScript app that enables users to annotate any website with content authored in a WordPress blog.

Software Engineer at TP-Link

July 2015 - Present

Championed a more collaborative process for responsive web design between the UX and development disciplines. Curated an internal static web framework and responsive pattern library to be used on multiple projects. Lead development on responsive prototypes for NBC Universal, DIRECTV, AIG, Lionsgate, and the USA Network.
